Ngarrindjeri artist Amanda Westley

The workshop will be led by Amanda Westley, a Ngarrindjeri woman and contemporary Aboriginal artist from Victor Harbor. Amanda's vibrant dot paintings reflect her deep connection to Country, the ocean, and her family's longstanding cultural connection to the South Coast. With numerous awards and exhibitions to her name, Amanda also creates bespoke commissioned artworks. During the workshop, she will guide participants through an Aboriginal-inspired art creation session, exploring connection to land, culture, and community.

This activity has been funded by the Flinders campus activation initiative, designed to foster a vibrant, inclusive, and connected workplace and campus culture.
